Delivery Report in Outlook or Outlook Web App 2013

Overview
When using Outlook or Outlook Web App (OWA) in an Office 365 or Exchange environment, you can track the message from the client side. Both Outlook and OWA allow you to view a delivery report in order to confirm a message was delivered when the recipient claims they have not received it or if it’s taking a long time to deliver. Delivery reports work for both internal and external recipients.

How to Request a Delivery/Read Receipt in Outlook 2013

When sending email, you might want to know that your message has been delivered (delivery receipt) and you might want to know whether the message was opened (read receipt). You can request one or both types of receipts easily in Outlook 2013.

NOTE: The recipient generally has the option of declining the sending of receipts, preventing you from receiving either type of receipt even though you request them. Additionally, not all e-mail programs support the sending of delivery and read receipts.

How to Request Delivery and Read Receipts for All Emails You Send

1. To choose to request delivery and/or read receipts for all emails you send out, from your desktop Outlook click the File tab.

2. At the left side of the Account Information screen, click Options in the list of menu items.
3. In the Outlook Options dialog box, click Mail from the list of menu options on the left.

4. Scroll down to the Tracking section.

5. Select the Delivery receipt and/or Read receipt check boxes to request receipts for all emails you send out. Select any other Tracking options you want and click OK to accept your changes.

Delivery Receipt/Read Receipt for Individual Emails

If you only want to request a delivery receipt and/or read receipt for the current email message:

1. Click on New Email.
2. Click the Options tab while the new email message is open.

3. In the Tracking section of the Options tab, select either the Request a Delivery Receipt check box or the Request a Read Receipt check box or both.

Note that even though you receive a read receipt, it is not a guarantee that the recipient read and understood the email.
