

3357:13-17-13 Student Responsibility to Pay Policy

- (A) Each student who enrolls in classes at North Central State College bears the financial responsibility for the costs associated with those classes.
- (B) The act of registering and de-registering for classes carries with it a financial obligation to pay or to arrange for timely payment of appropriate fees prior to established payment deadlines. While the College offers several different means of assisting students in meeting this obligation through financial aid and other financing services, the ultimate responsibility for meeting payment deadlines falls upon the individual student.
- (C) A student who does not take action to obtain resources from the different financial aid and payment options offered at the college, and does not pay prior to the established deadline (also see procedure 17-131), will be administratively removed from their courses by the business office prior to the start of the term.
